A FAMILY SERVICE SYLLABUS

We started the Family Service a couple of years ago. It begins at 11 o'clock each Sunday and runs for three-quarters of an hour. Its aim is twofold: (i) to convey the Christian message to outsiders at a time judged to be convenient to them; and (ii) to provide a planned substitute for the traditional ministry after the Lord's Supper, which we celebrate from 10 to 10.45 in an adjoining hall.

The short service includes a five-minute children's talk and a message to the adults lasting a quarter of an hour or so. The theme of the latter is planned by a committee of seven, including one lady and a chairman elder. The committee has proved an invaluable source of stimulating and varied ideas and a practical check on the hobby horses and high-faluting notions of individuals. We aim to provide a balanced and wholesome diet, marked by both continuity and variety. The Bible is studied at the level of verse, paragraph, chapter, book and character study. The doctrines of the faith are presented. Ample room is made for personal testimony, to show the outworking of faith in individual lives (very popular). We exploit the traditional church calendar of Easter, Whitsun, etc. Remembrance Sunday in 1967 provided a theme for the whole month. But there is need to guard against stereotyped repetition: so in 1968 we thought it wise to break entirely away from the theme. For a fortnight in the summer we receive help from a CSSM team during their campaign in the district. One month in the year is left open and no subject is specified. This gives scope to those of our gifted brethren who prefer not to be committed to a subject they have not chosen. Generally there is a different speaker each week, appropriately 'primed', if need be, and frequently provided from resources within the assembly. In November 1968 it was deemed wise for one person to take responsibility for the whole month to preserve homogeneity in the treatment of a complex subject.

Advance publicity is achieved by the judicious distribution of attractively printed cards and folders. Much thought is therefore given to appealing titles, although one has to beware of false series in which ill-matched material is pushed together under related headings. In this and other respects we are learning as we go along in this rewarding venture.

R. MORRIS, Chairman, Family Service Committee
