The Church and the Empire

Twenty-five years ago, when the great tide of immigration was pouring into Western Canada, this Society was following up the immigrants, sending out a large number of students, helping in their training for the ministry, and in the setting up of small prairie churches.

It was then hoped that in a very short time those churches would become self-supporting. That hope has not been realized. Desolation and destruction have stricken the whole area. The sufferings of the people are as bad as in any part of the world.

The need now is as great, or even greater, than ever. That need must be met if the Church in England is to fulfil its great mission to our own people overseas.

Your contribution would be gratefully acknowledged by the Secretary.

Among the Eskimos in the most northerly part of Labrador

Moravian Missionaries have been working for more than 160 years. Whenever they build a Church they build a school—for the purpose of giving the children a Christian Education. The problem of educating the children has become very difficult. The Eskimos no longer live in large villages where the children can attend day-school, but in small clusters wherever they find the best hunting. Two boarding schools have had to be established—one at Nain, the other at Makkovik. At each 30 or 40 little children are fed, taught and "mothered" during the long winter. In the short summer they are with their parents, learning how to become, eventually, good hunters and housewives.

This necessary change from inexpensive day schools to boarding schools, has laid a heavy burden on the Mission's slender Funds.

Will you help to educate one of these children?
£600 per annum is required for each school, i.e.,
£20 a year for each child.

Considering the urgency of the need we trust you will be moved to respond to this call.

—a fount of Christian comfort and inspiration—

ENGLISH PREACHING was never better than it is to-day. In touch with the realities of the hour, yet confident in its possession of a gospel for this age as for all ages, it offers a consoling and a prophetic message in a language which rings true to the modern intelligence.

A convincing proof of this assertion will be found in the new volume of the Christian World Pulpit.

Carefully selected, and representing all the British Protestant denominations, the sermons in this volume form a great Christian apologetic—a body of luminous Christian teaching on the problems of the day—a fount of Christian comfort and inspiration.

This is a volume of real preaching—clear, candid, disinterested—for a time of real need. It may be confidently commended to all who are seeking, amidst our modern perplexities, a religious anchorage both for heart and mind.
