among the Arabs. Around them were generally deep and rugged gorges and ravines or water-courses, whose sides were formed of ledges of granite nearly perpendicular. . . . Whilst crossing over these low hills, my friend pointed out the path between them and Sinai, through which he had passed yesterday on his return from St. Catherine. . . . This ravine around Sinai becomes a deep and impassable gorge, with perpendicular walls, as it enters Wady Leja, passing through the high neck connecting Sinai with the mountain on the south. Descending into el-Leja, under the rocky precipice of Sinai, we found the Wady narrow, and choked up with huge blocks of granite, which had tumbled from the sides of the adjacent mountains. We could now see the olive-grove of the deserted convent el-Arbain."

Had Ritter been acquainted with the nature of the ground and the ravine here described; and especially could he have stood for half an hour on the summit of Jebel Musa; I cannot help thinking, that the authority of his great name would hardly have been given to the view in question.

One other point may be noticed. It would appear from the language of Scripture, that Moses ascended the mountain in the presence of the people; and the bounds were set (in part) lest the people should "go up into" the mount (Ex. 19: 12, 20, 24). Now on its southern side the peak of Jebel Musa is perfectly inaccessible; and it can be ascended only from near the convents in the valleys on each side, out of sight of any space on the south. But from er-Râhab, a ravine leading up through the steep face of es-Sufsâfeh, affords a way of ascent directly in sight of the whole plain. This is not improbably the Derâh el-Serich of Pococke.1

ARTICLE IX.

GREEK INSCRIPTIONS.

[Addressed to one of the Editors.]

Yale College, March 26, 1849.

MY DEAR SIR:—I send you copies of inscriptions transcribed by Mr. Thomson during the tour, his account of which is contained in the Bib. Sac. for November 1848. The inscriptions are, I regret to say, unimportant in themselves, and in an extremely corrupt state. They ought, however, to be published, as a slight contribution to the epigraphic department of Greek archaeology. I have added some few corrections or conjectures.

1. Found on the cornice of the sepulchral chamber at Behindelayeh mentioned under date of Aug. 26th, in the Bib. Sac. Vol. 5. p. 669. The inscription which occurs immediately under the wreath, extends in large letters the entire length of the cornice, and is very plain except where it has been purposely defaced.

ΤΙΚΑΦΙΟΚΑΗΚ ΤΙΚΑΚΟ ΟΚΑΝΔΡΟΝ - ΤΟΝΙΠΑΕΡΑ - ΤΟΥΚΑΙΚΑΙΠΑ-ΡΟΥ - ΤΘΝΜΕΤΕ . . . . . . . ΚΜΙ ΦΚ . . . ΗΣΧΑΡΗ

The fourth letter ought to be $A$; and we have here an abbreviation for Τιβίρμος Κλαυδίος, which again occurs for the accusatives of the same words. The father's name was perhaps Σωσανθρος. With the mother's name I can do nothing. The inscription may have run thus: Τ. Κλ. φιλόνης Τ. Κλ. Σωσανθρον τον πατέρα αυτού και * * * την μητέρα τυμής και μνήμης γάμων.

2. A few inches beneath this is the following in smaller characters.

ΕΤΟΥΣ - ΛΙΤΡ - ΜΗΝΟΣ ΑΤΣ ΤΟΥΡΑΚ - ΑΝΑΡΕΠΑΘΡ - Υ

I seem here to discern Ηςους $πρός$ μερος Αλτερον $διος$ Σωσανθρος . . . .
The year 186, if that be the year, belongs to some era first used in the Roman times. See Ideler's Handbuch der Chronol. Vol. I. 457—476.

3. On a piece of broken cornice belonging to a ruined church at the village of Kokalayeh. See Mr. Thomson's tour, p. 670.

ΙΟΓΕΟΣΟΤΕΛΑΙΟΣΑΣ . . .

ΟΑΙΝΟΣΑΝΗΙΡΕ . . .

4. On a pedestal of one of the columns is this:

ΟΥΣΤΝΤ

ΝΟΩΑΟΣ

i. e. "Ετος $γις$. Μερος Αλευ; or Αλευ?"

5. From the face of a tomb on Jebel Arbayin near Riba. See p. 673.

ΕΑΚ Ade . ΡΟ ... ΟΤΟΟΣΚΑΙΚΑΝΚΟΛΑΛΗΝΟΕΑ $ΦΚΩΝΤΙΟΤΑΙΑΕΕΤ$

ΠΤΙΑΙΑΤΡΟΝΙΕΥΡ

All following the second cross seems to be in one line, if I understand Mr. Thomson correctly. The date is legible; and towards the end something occurs which looks like "Ιουλλα . . . Γογγο[α]λευ.

6. On another tomb in the same place

$ΩΑΙΝΕΤ$

ΜΑΧΟΣΟΕΝΑΝΑΡΟ
7. From the south cornice of a canopy over the fountain at Kafi Lata, mentioned p. 673. The letters are in one line and some of them nearly illegible.

ΤΙΤΑΙΜΟΙΟΙΑΙΠΠΟΝΙΗ ᾿ΙΟΒΙΠΕΤΟΤΙΗΕΙΠΙΝΔΙΕΣΟΤΙΤΙΖΑΙΝΑΥ

8. Over the door of a large house at Bara. See p. 676.

+ΚΤΡustriaZHTNIEαΣΟΝΕΓΚΑΙΘΝΕΣΟΔΑΝΑΙΟΓΘΤΩΝΩΝΚΑΙΛΙΙ...ΙΟΑΙΩΝΩΝΑΚΙΗΝ

This is Psalm 121:8, with τοῦ αἰώνος for τοῦ αἰῶνος, and ἀμὴν following. The same verse is copied by Mr. Thomson from an inscription over another door partly obliterated.

9. "Above the north window of a palace is the following."

ΔΟΣΑΝΙΤΗΡΟΙΗΙΙΚΑΙΕΠΙΤΗΠΗΠΗΝΚΑΙΕΛΑ

This must be Luke 2:14, as far as ἐν δύναμιν τῶν ὀνόματος, with the nouns put into the accusative. But the first part is not clear. After δύναμιν there is no room for ἐν ὑψηλος Θεῷ.

10. The following is over a doorway at the same place.

ΝΕΓΑΛΗΝΗΔΥΝΑΙΝΕΤΗΓΑΙΑΣΟΧΙΩΝΟΣΟΤΙΩΝΙΚΑ

That is μεγάλη δύναμις τῆς ἡγίας τριαδός. + ὁ Κύριος Προσοφ. ἐν τούτῳ νῦν. Count Priscus lived after Constantine, perhaps a great while after.

11. Near the modern village at the same place.

ΕΤΟΥΧΗΚΑΣΑΠΙΚΟΤΗΧΜΧΟΣΕΤΡΑ

This is probably ἔτους η, κ, φ. Ζητουμον μηρός [μυρα?] II of the inscription is probably N and T joined together. The Macedonian month Χανθικος is also written not unfrequently with a (see Bergk's Beiträge zur Griech. Monatskunde, p. 54), and also with t, corp. Boeckh Corp. inser. Vol. 3. No. 4672. The name of the month usually follows μηρός.

12. On two sides of a large cross upon a coffin occurs Psalm 91:9, second clause, and 10, which it is unnecessary to copy.

13. In the porch within one of the gates of the castle at Salamiyeh, copied by Dr. De Forest. See p. 682.

ΑΙΒΙΤΕΝΚΕΠΟ
(Γ?)ΗΕΙΜΙΟΘΕΟΕΑ
ΕΑΚΙΑΚΗΒΩΓΕ≪
(ΜΗ)ΙΗΝΟΤΝΕΚΡΗΝΤΟ

This stone must have been broken in two nearly in a direction down-

14. The following is on the base of a column outside of the gate of Salamiyeh.

ΤΙΚΑΑΗΕΠ
ΤΑΝΤΟΤΟΙ
ΩΤΑΝΟΤΠΕ
ΠΙΟΝΙΕΠΡΙΟΥ
ΚΕΚΡΟΤΟΙ
ΚΟΝΟΝΟΤΤΕ
ΓΟΝΕΝ

This appears to be a Christian inscription. Although a number of words can be made out, I have nothing satisfactory to offer in explanation of it. I submit the following reading of the inscription in the hope that it may lead some one on a better track.

ἡ καλα . . . τοῦ διασωτανοῦ. το ἥραν Σεργίου καὶ Κήρου οἰκονόμου γέγονεν.

15. An inscription on a block of marble found near the castle of Sheizar (Seidjar, Burckhardt). This block was dug up by Burckhardt, and he has given the inscription in his travels in Syria, p. 146. It has been transferred to Boeckh’s Corpus, Vol. 3. p. 224, No. 4477. Mr. Thomson’s apograph is almost precisely like Burckhardt’s.

+ ΕΑΜΟΒΕΑΡΕΩΡ(ς) ΑΡΧΕΜΑΝΑΡ
i. a. Σερον(δ) . . . . δ’ ἀρχεμανδρ[ίας.

On the cover under a cross, the lower angles of which contain the letters A, is the following inscription.

ΓΑΙΔΗΠΑ
Ν...ΓΡ
ΠΡΕΚΑΝ

ΕΨΙΓΙΤΕ
ΝΨΙΝΑΙΟ
ΙΜΑΧΝΧΑΥ
Π.ΠΕΣΑΙ
ΤΣΕΤΖΑ
ΜΗΙ-XΧΥΤΙΤ
ΡΕΙΤ.ΔΤ

I seem to read here something like this: Ἰωνίαν Ἀντιμέρζου . . . ἀπίθάνεν ἱερος ZX (?), μνησὸς Ἡπείρῳ. The fact that the first word is tolerably well made out, and in the accusative, throws doubt on the rest. I believe that ἡλεόλα is the usual word on inscriptions and not ἀπίθανεν.

18. From the base of a statue at Judeithah, a small village at the foot of Jebel Kniah, copied by Dr. De Forest.

   I N V O N I . R E G I N A E
   A E T I . H A D R I A N I . A N T O N I
   I V S . F I . C E M F I L V S F R A T E S
   E X . E S T A M E N T O P E T I I I

The necessary corrections are almost too evident to be noticed, viz. A E L I in line 3, B A L B I C A N V S in line 5, E T for F I and F R A T R E S line 6, supply T line 7, and read P E T I L I A E line 7.

19. The following was copied at "Kuer Wady, Hummara, Anti-Lebanon," by Dr. De Forest.

   Α Λ Ω Θ Τ Η Ν Η I O C A Σ Ι Τ Τ X H A I
   Κ Π Βωθε ΟΤ C Δ Ν Α Ρ Ι Ο Τ Α R Χ Ι Ε ρ E E
   Π Α Ρ Η Α Ι Ο Ι B Α Ρ Ε Λ Α Α Κ Φ I Ι Ν O T K Ι Ο K E Ο Ω K Β Ε Ο Ω Κ Β Ε Ο
   Κ Α Ι B Η Ρ Τ Δ Λ Ω C A B Ρ E Ο Φ Μ K Ι A Ι G Ι Α N Η C Ε R Μ Α Ν Ο
   Κ Α I Μ A K E Δ Ο N I Α B I M E Ο T C K A I B E C Λ Ι A K O C Δ
   Ε Π E M E Λ Η Τ E Α Π Ο K Ω M H C A I N K Α I H A T E K Τ I C Α N T

"Two or three letters are wanting at the end of the last line. The II over the third line was so in the original." Dr. De Forest expresses doubt respecting letters 5 and 14 of line 1, letter 5 of line 2, letter 21 of line 3, the last letter of line 5, and letters 24 and 25 of line 6.

The latter part of the first line I have not been able to decipher. The rest may have been as follows:

'Ἀγαθὴ τέχνη
Επὶ Ἀδωθέου (?) Δεινόρχου (?) ἀρχερέως.
Ἀφίλος Βαρεάς Φιλίτπου, καὶ Ὀκέθους Ὀκίθους,
καὶ Βηρύλλος Ἀβαμάντους, καὶ Λευίνης Γερμάνου καὶ Μακεδόνος Ἀβαμέλους καὶ Βελλίακος δ (?)
ἐνημερεύτηκαν ἀπὸ καὶ εἰς τὸν Κατήγορον τοῦτον, σε ἱκτήσαντο.

This inscription adds to the number of names appearing on Syrian inscriptions Abotees (if that be the reading), Bareaes, Okbeus, Abramex, Aisianes, Abimmes and Beeliacus. The name of the village is uncertain, as Dr. De Forest is in doubt respecting two of the letters. Can δ after Benevaco denote that he is the fourth in descent bearing the same name? Comp. Προμαχος, i.e. Νίλος, or in other words son of Germanus in Boeckh, No. 4648. Still more strange Syrian names occur in No. 4612 of Boeckh's collection.

In the Bibl. Sacr. for May, 1848, p. 253, the following line occurs in an inscription copied by Mr. Thomson at Rasad.

\[
\text{ΑΙΡΕΟΝΟΚΔΕΚΤΟΙΝΗ}
\]

In attempting to restore the inscription of which this is a part I failed of ascertaining the name of the legion here mentioned. A little more experience would have led me to what I now see to be the certain emendation in this case, viz. Α. Σπασθής, i.e. legionis quartae Scythicae. The traces of the letters, as given by Mr. Thomson, are followed nearly throughout, and the fourth legion with the same title, appears from at least one other Greek inscription, to have been stationed at one time in Syria. Comp. Boeckh. 3. No. 4460.

Most sincerely yours,

T. D. Woolsey.

ARTICLE X.

NEW PUBLICATIONS AND MISCELLANIES.

Layard's Nineveh. We wish to preserve on our pages a brief record of the explorations and discoveries of Mr. Layard which are very interesting in themselves and which seem destined to cast no inconsiderable light on the Old Testament Scriptures, as well as on other ancient histories.

Mr. Layard began his labors in Nov. 1845, and closed them in June, 1847. The results are published (English edition) in the best style of London workmanship, in two volumes, large duodecimo, pp. 390, 492. Besides a detailed and very interesting account of the excavations at Nineveh, there is also a narrative of a visit to some of the native Christians of Kurdistan, to the Yezidees (see Bib. Sac. Nov. 1847), and of several excursions among the surrounding tribes of Arabs. The narrative proper closes at the 149th page of Vol. II. The remainder of the second volume, about 260 pages, is devoted to a series of remarks on the Ancient History of Assyria, the Semitic origin of the people, the architecture, and other arts, military system, manners and private life, religion, etc.
