Notes on Bible Words.

No. XXII.—"INTERCESSION."

THE primary meaning of ἐνεργευομαι is to light upon, meet with, a person or a thing. Secondly, to go to, or meet a person for consultation or supplication. Acts xxv. 24: "about whom (πρὸς αὐτόν) all the multitude have dealt with me" (ἐνεργεβοι μοι), R.V.: "made suit to me." Hence, to entreat, pray: ἔμπρεπος with gen. of pers., to make intercession for anyone; the dat. of the pers. approached in prayer being omitted, as evident from the context (Grimm). Romans viii. 27: "He maketh intercession for the saints"; 34, "also maketh interc. for us."

Hebrews vii. 25: "to make interc. for them," εἰς τὸ ἔντρ. ἑαυτοῦ of Hebrews vii. 25; "maketh intercession to God," R.V., "pleadeth with God." "against Israel," ἀνατά; accuse one to anyone. (Cf 1 Macc. viii. 32, etc.)

ἐνεργευομαι, to intercede for one, is found in Romans viii. 26.

(Six times in N.T. Not found in Sept.)
The noun ἐνεργεύματος, an interview; a conference; a supplication (Diod. xvi. 55, Jos. "Antiq.," xv. 3, 8), is found in 1 Tim. iv. 5, "prayer," and II. i, plur. "intercessions."

In that delightful book, "The Ascension and Heavenly Priesthood of our Lord," by Prof. Milligan, recently published (Macmillan and Co.), remarks on "Intercession" are suggestive. Thus, Dr. Milligan writes, p. 151:

By examining it in its different contexts it will at once be seen that the verb does not mean simply to pray. It means to deal or transact with one person in reference to another, either making a statement "concerning" him upon which certain proceedings ought to follow, or asking something "for" him or "against" him. Petition is, indeed, the general result of such action, and hence the phrase passes easily into this meaning when there is anything in the connexion to give it that particular force. When, however, it stands alone, without anything to limit the interpretation, it ought to be understood in a much wider sense, as including the whole series of transactions in which one person may engage with another on behalf of a third. . . . It may be matter of regret that the English language seems to possess no better word than "intercession" to express the action of our High Priest in heaven after He had presented His offering to the Father. For this, however, there is no help, and all that can be done is to impress upon the inquirer the fact that "Intercession" is a much wider word than prayer. We are to understand it of every act by which the Son, in dependence on the Father, in the Father's name, and with the perfect concurrence of the Father, takes His own with Him into the Father's presence, in order that whatever He Himself enjoys in the communications of His Father's love may become also theirs.

Many who, like ourselves, cannot follow the learned Professor on every point, will enjoy and profit by this work.
