

ecclesia

reformanda

SUBMISSIONS

Ecclesia Reformanda welcomes submissions, consistent with the editorial position of the journal, in all the theological subdisciplines. Information for contributors, including a style-guide can be found on the journal's website.

EDITORIAL BOARD

Editor: Matthew Mason

Managing Editor: Neil Jeffers

Reviews Editor: Ros Clarke

Consulting Editor: David Field

Ecclesia Reformanda, PO Box 257, Lowestoft, NR32 9EU

<http://www.ecclesiareformanda.org.uk>

All material © Ecclesia Reformanda: British Reformed Theology, and may not be used without permission.

Contents

Editorial Note	94
The Case Against Same-Sex Marriage. Part Two Alastair Roberts	95
The Case Against Same-Sex Marriage. Part Three Alastair Roberts	118
Strength for Today and Bright Hope for Tomorrow: How Food Advances the Plot of Genesis Steffen Jenkins	140
Song of Songs: A Brief Guide to Some Secondary Literature R. S. Clarke	167

Reviews of Books

Barry Danylak, Redeeming Singleness: How the Storyline of Scripture Affirms the Single Life Reviewed by Alastair Roberts	184
Lee Gatiss, ed., Pilgrims, Warriors, and Servants: Puritan Wisdom for Today's Church Reviewed by Michael Peach	187
Lee Gatiss, The True Profession of the Gospel: Augustus Toplady and Reclaiming our Reformed Foundations Reviewed by Daniel Newman	190

Editorial Note

The Ecclesia Reformanda editorial board apologises for the very late publication of issue 3.2, due in October 2011, and now finally going to print in August 2012. We trust that it will have proved worth the wait.

This will mark the final print issue of the journal. It is for this reason that both the second and third parts of Alastair Roberts's series on same-sex marriage appear together. Following the recent example of a number of print journals, in the future Ecclesia Reformanda will be freely available online at <http://www.ecclesiareformanda.org.uk>. We hope that this will lead to a wider readership for the journal. Articles from previous years will soon appear on the journal's website, and after a year's delay, the articles from issue 3.2 will also be placed online.

The journal still welcomes submissions of new articles.