Justification by faith is the hinge on which all true religion turns.

John Calvin

The scriptural doctrine of justification by faith alone, without any manner of goodness or excellency of ours, does in no wise diminish either the necessity or benefit of a sincere evangelical obedience.

Jonathan Edwards

Annotated Bibliography

Berkouwer, G. C. Faith and Justification. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1954. Berkouwer’s works are highly recommended, especially those which were written earlier before some of his alterations on the authority of Scripture. Readable theology which is extremely profitable on this subject.

Braaten, Carl E. Justification: The Article by Which the Church Stands or Falls. Minneapolis: Fortress, 1990. Braaten assesses Luther’s view of justification and its subsequent interpretations by Calvin, Ritschl, Harnack, Tillich and Barth. He also critiques the modern ecumenical discussions regarding this doctrine.

*Buchanan, James. The Doctrine of Justification. Grand Rapids: Baker, 1977. This classic was first published in 1867. It is still the best orthodox treatment on the subject available for serious pastors and lay readers. Read it, study it, teach it!

Annotated Bibliography

*Carson, D. A., editor. Right With God: Justification in the Bible and the World. Grand Rapids: Baker, 1992. This volume of essays was produced through the Theological Commission of the World Evangelical Fellowship. It is one of the best modern scholarly treatments of the important issues.

Chemnitz, Martin (J. A. O. Preus, translator.) Justification: The Chief Article of Christian Doctrine as Expounded in Loci Theologici. St. Louis: Concordia, 1985. Chemnitz lectured on Melanchthon's Loci communes regularly, and provides in this vital work one of the finest Reformation defenses of "the chief article."

Dantine, Wilhelm. Justification of the Ungodly. St. Louis: Concordia, 1968. Professor Dantine, who taught at the University of Vienna, wrote this restudy of justification in an era when ecumenical relationships began to address this subject.

Forde, Gerhard O. Justification by Faith—A Matter of Death and Life. Philadelphia: Fortress, 1982. Forde, Professor of Systematic Theology at Luther-Northwestern Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minnesota, is a refreshing writer and thinker who helps the reader focus on the important concerns related to the subject.

Heinz, Johann. Justification and Merit: Luther vs. Catholicism. Berrien Springs, Michigan: Andrews University Press, 1981. Along with McGrath (below) this is an important historical work.

Luther, Martin. Jaroslav Pelikan, editor. Luther's Works, 56 volumes. St. Louis: Concordia. One does not need the whole set, but consulting Galatians, Romans and some of the theological writings is very important.

Luther, Martin. Ewald M. Plass, editor. What Luther Says: Anthology. St. Louis: Concordia, 1959. The most valuable Luther resource for the average reader.

Mackenzie, W. B. The Justified Believer: His Security, Conflicts and Triumphs. Harrisonburg, Virginia, 1997 reprint (1848 edi-
Annotated Bibliography

This helpful work is reprinted along with the Joseph Hart volume mentioned above.

*Murray, John. Redemption Accomplished and Applied. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1955. This is the finest popular, but serious, Reformed treatment of grace in salvation that has been written in the past forty years or so. The chapter on justification is extremely useful.

Pink, A. W. The Doctrines of Election and Justification. Grand Rapids: Baker, 1974. Pink is a helpful popular writer but at times is too wordy and a bit confusing.

*Highly Recommended

Dr. Joel R. Beeke has compiled an extensive 40-page annotated bibliography relating to the subject of justification. For a copy send $5 (U.S.) to Reformation Heritage Books, 2919 Leonard NE, Grand Rapids, Michigan, 49505. This extremely valuable resource can be useful to any who want to do serious research on the subject of justification.
Annotated Bibliography