Reformation & Revival Journal (ISSN 1071-7277), (U.S.P.S. 011-791), is published quarterly, for $28 per year, or $48 for two years, by Reformation & Revival Ministries, Inc., 630 Paxton Place, Carol Stream, Illinois 60188-9244. Second-class postage has been paid at Carol Stream, Illinois, and additional mailing offices. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Reformation & Revival Journal, P.O. Box 88216, Carol Stream, Illinois 60188-0216.

Reformation & Revival Journal is indexed in Christian Periodical Index and ATLA Religion Database, published by the American Theological Library Association, 250 S. Wacker Dr., 16th Fl., Chicago, IL 60606, E-mail: atla@atla.com, http://www.atla.com/.

Reformation & Revival Journal is published four times each year by Reformation & Revival Ministries, Inc., a not-for-profit teaching ministry organized in the state of Illinois in 1991. The ministry is committed to the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments as the infallible Word of God and is in essential agreement with the confessional statements of historic Reformation theology. The purpose of this ministry is centered in its name:

1. To encourage reformation in local Christian churches worldwide.
2. To promote the cause of revival and spiritual awakening through prayer and the provision of resources to aid Christian leaders.

Subscription rates are $28 for one year, $48 for two years. Special full-time student rate is $16 for one year. Please remit in U.S. currency only. For overseas orders add $4 for each year for postage. Canadian subscribers add $2 per year for additional postage. Back issues and single issues are $9 each. To order in other currencies contact the names below:

Australian subscriptions available through:
Reformation & Revival Ministries (Australia)
c/o Malcolm Bouchard
110 Marshall Road
Rockdale, Qld. 4106

United Kingdom subscriptions available through:
Reformation & Revival Ministries (UK)
c/o Tony Ruston
2 Canton House, Wellesley Road
Ashford, Kent TN24 8ET, England • Phone: 01-233-662262

Canadian subscriptions available through:
Reformation & Revival Ministries (Canada)
c/o Don B. Cook
2113 Victoria Avenue E
Thunder Bay, Ontario P7C 1E4 • Phone: (807) 622-2325

Correspondence concerning articles, editorial policy, books for review, suggested manuscripts, and subscriptions should be addressed to the editor. Comments are welcome.

The conviction of the staff and editors of the Reformation & Revival Journal is that awakening, of the kind seen in the First Great Awakening in America, wedded to the doctrinal concerns of the historic Protestant Reformation as expressed in the terms sola scriptura, sola gratia, and sola fide, is needed in our generation.

The views expressed in this publication should be considered as the personal opinions of the authors and are not to be taken as an official editorial perspective.

ISSN 1071-7277 Scripture quotations are from The Holy Bible, English Standard Version, copyright © 2001 by Crossway Bibles, a division of Good News Publishers. Used by permission. All rights reserved.

Reformation & Revival Journal

A Quarterly Journal for Church Leadership
Published by Reformation & Revival Ministries, Inc.
P.O. Box 88216, Carol Stream, Illinois 60188-0216
(630) 221-1817

Editor-in-Chief:
John H. Armstrong

Editor:
Stephen Board

Associate Editors:
Ardel Ceneday
T. M. Moore
Thomas N. Smith
Luder Whitlock

Managing Editor:
Anita Armstrong

Design and Production:
Ragont Design

Subscriptions Manager:
Robert Mulder

Contributing Editors:

Joel R. Beeke
Charles H. McGowan

Donald G. Bloesch
David P. Mills

David Bryant
Peter Moore

Bryan Chapell
Roger Nicole

Susan Cyre
Thomas C. Oden

Eifion Evans
Kevin Offner

Don Carlington
Hughes Oliphant

Timothy F. George
James I. Packer

Michael J. Glodo
Rebecca Pippert

John D. Hannah
Leland Ryken

Michael A. G. Haykin
P. Andrew Sandlin

I. John Hesselink
Tom Schwanda

John Mason Hodges
H. E. Singley

Alan F. Johnson
C. Samuel Storms

Nelson D. Kloosterman
Travis Tamerius

Bonnie Sue Lewis
Robert E. Webber

Erwin W. Lutzer
Tom Wells

Ralph MacKenzie
Monte Wilson

Bassam Madany
Terry Yount

Gerald R. McDermott
Andrew T. B. McGowan

© 2001 by Crossway Bibles, a division of Good News Publishers. Used by permission. All rights reserved.
Table of Contents

Reformation & Revival Journal

Introduction
John H. Armstrong 7

Theme Articles

Sovereign Grace and Human Freedom
I. John Hesselink 11

Foreknowledge: Prescience or Predestination?
Robert H. Lescelius 25

The Plan Behind the Promise
Robert Kolb 41

Prayer and the Power of Contrary Choice
C. Samuel Storms 53

Theodore Beza’s Supralapsarian Predestination
Joel R. Beeke 69

Articles

The Trouble with Conservatives
P. Andrew Sandlin 87

God’s Answer to Despair
C. H. McGowen, M.D. 91

The Image of God: According to Their Kinds
Douglas P. Baker 97

An Early Response to Open Theism
Stephen J. Nichols 111

Departments

The RRJ Interview with Earle E. Cairns 131

Classical Worship for Today
Wilbur Ellsworth 149

Classical Practice for Today
Thomas N. Smith 155

Annotated Bibliography
159

Ministry Resources

Book Reviews
The Church
What It Means to Be Human
Fantasy and Your Family
Valley of Vision
Evangelism Outside the Box
Simone Well
The Right Man
Joseph Smith
The Postmodern World
Recent Children’s Books

Book Briefs
191

Final Thoughts
199
No subject is more likely to elicit disagreement, even heated disagreement, than predestination. It is not only a subject hard to discuss, but it is notoriously difficult to define.

The word means "to determine beforehand." The Concise Oxford Dictionary adds, after the above definition, that to predestine means, "to appoint as by fate." The problem with this language, at least for a Christian theology, is simple. I do not know a single Christian theologian who accepts this second definition as biblical. Even the highest of the high Calvinists will not use the term "fate" to describe predestination. It is precisely here that a great deal of popular debate needs to begin. Whatever Christians mean when they speak of predestination, they are not speaking of fatalism. Fatalism involves the notion of "an arbitrary decree." It also carries the idea of "submission to all that happens as inevitable." Again, the word fate is not consistent with the complete witness of Scripture.

Evangelical Christian explanations are not always helpful either. Millard Erickson defines predestination as "the decision of God in choosing who will be saved and who will be lost" (Concise Dictionary of Christian Theology, 132). The Pocket Dictionary of Theological Terms (InterVarsity Press, 1999) is better when it notes that predestination is "the sovereign determination and foreknowledge of God" (94).
No biblically-faithful Reformed theologian would ever agree that there is a contradiction between the sovereign predestinating activity of God and the responsibility of human beings. A paradox, or antinomy, yes. But a contradiction, no. Predestination is not a way of escaping the clearest implications of human freedom, though theologians will differ in how they explain that freedom.

Reformed theologian I. John Hesselink sounds the right note:

We get into serious difficulties and cause needless stumbling blocks whenever we try to explain the mystery of God's sovereignty and human freedom in neat, logical terms. This is one of the problems with scholastic approaches where Aristotelian logic seeks to force biblical paradoxes into a philosophical straightjacket (On Being Reformed, 39-40).

It is true that John Calvin taught double-predestination, which many do not see as the clear teaching of the Bible. But my friend John Hesselink is right to conclude that Calvin's real goal was “to magnify the sovereign, free grace of God” (On Being Reformed, 41). May this goal be ever before you, the reader, as you wrestle with this great theme of predestination.